Historical Note

John J. Noelker (1881-1966) was born in Washington, Missouri on November 27, 1881 to Caspar Noelker and Frances Kamler, and baptized at St. Francis Borgia Church in Washington, MO. Noelker attended St. Meinrad School of Theology in Indiana from 1907-1910, and Kenrick Seminary in St. Louis, Missouri from 1910-1916. He was ordained on June 13, 1916 at Kenrick Seminary by Archbishop John J. Glennon.

Father Noelker was appointed to parishes and missions in Central Missouri. From June 1916 to October 1924, he served at Starkenburg and St. Peters, as well as missions of Jefferson City, including Mokane, Handcocks Prairie, Portland and Case. From 1924 to 1944, Fr. Noelker served at Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Parish in Morrison. From 1944-1957, he served at Immaculate Conception Parish in Augusta. In 1957, he retired for health reasons. Rev. John J. Noelker passed on May 7, 1966.

Rev. John J. Noelker took up photography as a young man, presumably while at St. Meinrad Seminary. Glass plates were the typical photographic medium at the time and were popular in use until around 1925. Noelker also used cellulose nitrate negatives, which were introduced in 1889 and used until around 1950.

Scope and Content

There are 308 glass plate negatives and 38 cellulose nitrate negatives. They are not organized in a particular order. Among the images are St. Meinrad School of Theology in Indiana, Kenrick Seminary, the shrine at Starkenberg, MO, and people and places near Rhineland, Krakow and Case, Missouri. Most of the persons and buildings are unidentified. Noelker's photographs offer a unique glimpse into the rural and small-town scenery and life of Central Missouri. Each negative was assigned an identification number and digitized. In some cases the images were digitally edited to be able to better see the image.
